

European School for Advanced Veterinary Studies

ESAVS Office Birkenfeld
Schadtengasse 2
D-55765 Birkenfeld /
GERMANY

Tel.: (+49) 6782 - 2329 Fax: (+49) 6782 - 4314

25 August 2005

Dear Veterinarians,

European School for Advanced Veterinary Studies is pleased to inform that in close co-operation with the European Veterinary Society for Small Animal Reproduction an intensive course in reproduction will take place in September in Nantes.

In order to assist persons coming from the new European Union countries the EVSSAR board agreed to support financially a limited number of applications (maximum 2).

Please find below details concerning this course

Small Animal Reproduction I, Nantes / France, 12-17.09.2005

Topics:

- Introduction to Reproduction management
- Mating, assisted mating, artificial insemination
- Control of reproductive cycle and infertility of the bitch
- The pregnant bitch - physiology, endocrinology, USG diagnostics
- Fertility/infertility of the male dog - USG diagnostics, examination of semen
- Early spaying in dog and cat
- Feline reproduction - pregnancy, diagnosis and monitoring
- Infertility, artificial insemination
- Parturition monitoring

Language: English

Course Master: Prof. Dr Francis Fieni (France)

Tuition fee: 1.500,-- euro

Reduced fee for Polish veterinarians: 750,-- euro

Further information about the ESAVS may be found on the website: www.esavs.org

Contact person:

Ewelina Skrzypecka

Ewelina.Skrzypecka@vetcontact.com